

SPEAKER PROFILES

17 March

Spinal cord compression: how to treat

Paula Pérez-Albert

Pediatric Oncologist at Hospital Central de Asturias (Oviedo, Spain). Pediatric Oncology Fellow at Sant Joan de Deu Children's Hospital (Barcelona, Spain; 2017-2020). Pediatric Speciality at Niño Jesús Children's Hospital (Madrid, Spain; 2013-2017) including an international observership in Pediatric Oncology at Our Lady's Children's Hospital (Dublin, Ireland).

Special interest in sarcomas and active participation in the Educational and Essential Medicines Young SIOPE group projects and the Support Group initiatives from the Spanish Pediatric Haematology and Oncology Society (SEHOP).

Asle Charles Hesla

Asle Charles Hesla, MD is a consultant in orthopaedic oncology at

Karolinska University Hospital

PhD May 2021 with the thesis: "Ewing sarcoma- treatment, prognosis and late effects".

His latest publications include: Transcriptome profiling of Ewing sarcomas - treatment resistance pathways and IGF-dependency.

Chen Y, Hesla AC, et. al. Mol Oncol. 2020 May;14(5):1101-1117.

Subsequent primary neoplasms among bone sarcoma survivors; increased risks remain after 30 years of follow-up and in the latest treatment era, a nationwide population-based study.

Hesla AC, et. al. Br J Cancer. 2020 Apr;122(8):1242-1249.